

Q.102: Are you yourself involved in agricultural production?

Are you yourself involved in agricultural production

About three fifth of the respondents are involved in agricultural production

Q.103: Which of the following strategies do you currently follow?

Which of the following strategies do you currently follow

The respondents mainly 'produce for consumption', 'use High Yield Variety and quality inputs' and 'select crops that can be harvested year-round', respectively. The first strategy ('producing for own consumption') was also followed by the YLD respondents, followed by 'growing a range of crops', 'intensifying land use' and 'applying pesticides'.

Which of the following strategies do you currently follow - YLD

Q.104: What is the most critical need to improving your agricultural crop productivity and income?

Most critical need to improving your agricultural crop productivity and income

The respondents mentioned they are primarily in most critical need of 'finance' and 'land' to improve their agricultural crop productivity and income.

Q.105: What is the most critical need to improving your livestock productivity and income?

Most critical need to improving your livestock productivity and income

The main need of the respondents to improve their livestock productivity and income is 'finance' followed by 'market information' and 'land'.

Q.106: What is the most critical need to improving your horticultural productivity and income?

Most critical need to improving your horticultural productivity and income

Finance, land and market are the most critical needs of the respondents to improve their horticultural productivity and income. Similar findings were obtained from the YLD.

Most critical need to improving your horticultural productivity and income - YLD

Q.107: What are current limitations to selling agricultural produce (crops, horticulture and livestock) on the market (for your own farm production or the farm of your parents or who you work for?)

What are current limitations to selling agricultural produce on the market

The most selected limitations to selling agricultural produce on the market are 'we do not produce enough to sell'; 'the prices are too low for selling to be worthwhile' and 'transportation problems to market'.

Q.108: Which of the following do you do?

Which of the following do you do

The most common activities are 'produce the primary produce' and 'processing own produce'.

Q.109: How was the income of {0} you do/did?

How was the income of the following crops

The respondents stated they acquired 'high profit' from cassava and sunflowers. Surprisingly, many answered the did not want to answer the question. This is probably the answer selected by those who don't grow those crops.

Q. 110: Who taught you how to farm?

Who taught you how to farm

The respondents largely learned to farm from their parents.

Q.111: Do you access agricultural extension services?

Do you access agricultural extension services

Majority of the respondents do not access agricultural extension services.

Q.112: What type of seeds do you use?

What type of seeds do you use

- a. We select it purposely and set aside as seed that produce that has good characteristics
- b. We buy from local farmers who specialize in producing seeds
- d. We buy certified, high yielding variety seeds
- e. Other (please specify)
- f. I don't know

The most common response to the enquiry about the type of seeds used is 'we select it purposely and set aside as seed that produce that has good characteristics'. The next most common response is 'I don't know'. Similarly, majority of the YLD respondents stated they 'we select it purposely and set aside as seed that produce that has good characteristics'.

What type of seeds do you use - YLD

- a. We select it purposely and set aside as seed that produce that has good characteristics
- b. We buy from local farmers who specialize in producing seeds
- c. We buy from agricultural input delivery, but uncertified seeds
- d. We buy certified, high yielding variety seeds
- f. I don't know
- g. Does not want to answer

Q.113: In terms of agriculture, what do you use your mobile phone for?

In terms of agriculture, what do you use your mobile phone for

The main response of the respondents is 'I don't use mobile technology' followed by 'does not want to answer'. For those who claimed to use their mobile phones, they mainly use it to 'access information about market prices'.

Q.114: Do you have agricultural insurance?

Do you have agricultural insurance

More than four fifth of the respondents do not have agricultural insurance, while the remaining do not want to disclose information about this and do not know, respectively.

Q.118: Do you agree with the following statements?

Do you agree with the following statements

The respondents agree ('agree strongly and 'agree somewhat" combined) with the mentioned statements, except with the statement 'If I had access to insurance, I would take more risks in my agricultural practices'. The statement they most agree with is "There are many opportunities to earn good money from agriculture"

Q.119: Do you agree with the following statements?

Do you agree with the following statements

The statements which recorded most agreement are 'agriculture can only be profitable if done as commercial farming' and 'with growing population there is increasing pressure on land and farms get smaller'.

Q.120: Which element is most important to improve income from crop agriculture?

Which element is most important to improve income from crop agriculture

More than half of the respondents mentioned 'access to enough land' is the most important element to improve income from crop agriculture.

Q.121: Which element is most important to improve income from livestock?

Which element is most important to improve income from livestock

'Access to enough land' and 'access to vet services and medicines' are the most selected elements which are important to improve income from livestock.

Q.122: Which element is most important to improve income from horticulture?

Which element is most important to improve income from horticulture

The respondents mainly chose 'access to markets' as the most important element to improve income from horticulture, followed by 'access to finance', 'access to better production skills' and 'access to enough land'.